LETTER FROM THE PUBLISHERS

As we step into a new year, we always find ourselves drawn to the simple comforts that make winter feel so inviting—a warm cup held between your hands, a good lamp glowing in the corner or a favorite old quilt pulled close on a quiet evening. January has a way of slowing us down just enough to notice these small rituals, and this issue celebrates them in every page.

From vintage glassware that turns an everyday table into something special, to the soft glow of beeswax candles, to recipes meant for cold nights and cozy gatherings, our January features embrace the warmth we all reach for during the winter months. Even our stories on antique sewing machines, Houston Museum of Decorative Arts' upcoming Antique Show and the charm of Cave City, Kentucky, remind us that a well-loved piece can bring a certain comfort no modern item quite replaces.

As you read, we hope you feel encouraged to create little corners in your home that invite rest—a spot for reading, writing, dreaming or simply catching your breath. Sometimes it takes just one meaningful piece, a lamp with history or a chair with character, to turn a small space into one that feels entirely your own.

Thank you for welcoming Busy Bee Trader into your home again this year. We're excited for the discoveries ahead and for all the cozy moments we'll share along the way.

Wishing you a Happy New Year!
Brandon & Melody Miles

CAVE CITY, KENTUCKY:

When travelers say they're headed to Cave City, Kentucky, most think first of Mammoth Cave National Park, the world's longest known cave system and a UNESCO World Heritage Site just minutes away. The underground world of Mammoth Cave stretches through more than 400 miles of mapped passageways and invites visitors to explore awe-inspiring stalactites, river chambers and hidden chambers that have fascinated generations. Above ground, the park's 53,000 acres offer scenic hiking, fishing, paddling and wildlife viewing across second-growth forests, sinkholes and spring-fed streams.

But for lovers of history, nostalgia and unique finds, Cave City offers something just as fun above ground: the Cave City Antique Trail, a cluster of locally owned shops where every visit feels like a new discovery. Whether you're planning a day trip or making a long weekend of it, the Antique Trail gives you plenty of reasons to explore, browse and bring home something special.

ANTIQUE TRAIL HIGHLIGHTS

Four Seasons Antiques

Located on Broadway, Four Seasons is known for its inviting atmosphere and extensive selection of antiques and collectibles. From vintage lamps and glassware to jewelry and small décor pieces, it's a great first stop for decorators and collectors alike.

Paul's Antiques & Collectibles

Housed in a historic building in downtown Cave City, Paul's blends nostalgia with variety. Expect to find Depression glass, old advertising signs, retro toys and decorative treasures, making it an ideal place to lose track of time while you hunt for that perfect piece.

The Roosters Crow Marketplace

With fantastic reviews from fellow treasure hunters, The Roosters Crow offers a curated mix of vintage finds and local curios. It is perfect for shoppers who like browsing at their own pace for gifts, furniture accents and quirky collectibles.

Lost & Forgotten Treasures

One of the area's most eclectic stops, this huge shop on South Dixie Highway specializes in a fascinating mix of vintage items from case knives to stoneware and cast-iron pieces.

Nuttin' Fancy Antique Shop

Just a few blocks off the main drag, Nuttin' Fancy packs two stories and 3,600 square feet full of antiques, including pottery, glassware, furniture and unusual artifacts collected with a keen eye for history and character.

Together, these stops make the Cave City Antique Trail a delightful destination for seasoned collectors and casual treasure hunters alike — all within a short loop through downtown and its nearby streets.

MAKE A DAY OF IT

Cave City makes it easy to turn your Antique Trail adventure into a full day of good food, local flavor and Kentucky charm. After browsing the shops downtown and along Dixie Highway, stroll over to POURter's Pub & Kitchen on Broadway for a relaxed lunch or dinner. It's a local favorite with hearty pub-style plates that hit the spot after a morning of treasure hunting.

Discover Treasures on the Antique Trail (and Beyond)

If you need a quick pick-me-up between stops, Ace Coffee Co on Broadway and Cave City Coffee & Creamery on Hubbard Lane both serve rich coffee drinks, cozy bites and sweet treats — ideal for refueling before you hit the next shop on the trail.

For something a little different — and delightfully local — make time for Honey & Oak, a community-loved restaurant with a warm, welcoming vibe and dishes that reflect Kentucky's comfort-food roots and farm-fresh ingredients.

And when you're ready to unwind, Cave City's newest additions sit side by side at 107 and 109 Broadway Street: Dueling Grounds Distillery and MB Roland Distillery. These tasting rooms offer bourbon and craft-spirit flights in a cozy downtown setting, giving visitors the perfect way to wrap up a day of exploring.

MORE TO EXPLORE NEARBY

Beyond antiques and great food, Cave City has family-friendly attractions that make it a destination worth lingering over:

- Dinosaur World – A unique outdoor museum with more than 150 lifelike dinosaurs scattered through a park-like setting.

Kids (and adults) can enjoy the interactive fossil dig, giant skeletal playground and indoor exhibits showcasing prehistoric creatures in naturalistic settings.

- Mammoth Cave Wildlife Museum – Located nearby on Happy Valley Street, this museum brings visitors up-close to exotic and rare animal displays and is a great complement to cave exploration and outdoor fun. Exhibits span a range of wildlife species, bringing learning and discovery together in one easy stop.

- Other Outdoor Adventures – From guided cave tours and horseback treks to zipline canopy tours and canoe excursions, there's an adventure for every age and interest just a short drive from downtown Cave City.

Cave City: Where Discovery Meets Southern Hospitality

Pair great antiques with good food, handcrafted drinks, family-friendly attractions and unforgettable natural wonders, and you've got a getaway that's easy to enjoy from morning to evening — all within the heart of Cave City. From the winding depths of Mammoth Cave National Park to the welcoming steps of its Antique Trail shops, Cave City invites you to make memories this year.

Cave City's Antique Trail isn't just about old things, it's about stories, memories and the thrill of discovery in a Kentucky town with plenty to offer. Add it to your 2026 travel list and make new finds on every visit.

VINTAGE RECIPE:

Mamie Eisenhower's Million-Dollar Fudge

4 ½ c sugar • Pinch of salt • 2 T butter • 1 14 ½-oz can evaporated milk
1 12-oz pkg semisweet chocolate bits • 3 4-oz bars sweet cooking chocolate
1 7-oz jar marshmallow creme • 2 c chopped nuts

Combine sugar, salt, butter and milk in saucepan; boil for 6 minutes. Place chocolate bits, cooking chocolate and marshmallow creme in large bowl; pour in hot mixture.

Beat until chocolate is melted; stir in nuts. Pour into buttered 12-inch square pan.

Let cool for several hours; cut into squares.

This vintage recipe is by Mrs. Elliot Ball of Ohio and was originally printed in 1968.

RECIPE
Sausage & Kale Soup

1 lb Italian sausage
4-6 red potatoes, chopped
½ onion, chopped
8 c chicken broth
1 bunch of fresh kale, chopped
4 T whipping cream or half and half
Extra Virgin Olive Oil (EVOO)
Salt and pepper

In a large soup pot, brown sausage over medium-high heat in a drizzle of EVOO. Once brown and crumbly, remove to a separate container and cover to keep warm. Add potatoes, onion and broth to soup pot. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat to medium and simmer until potatoes are tender (about 10 to 15 minutes depending on how large your potatoes are cut). Stir cooked sausage and kale into soup. Stir in cream and a big pinch of salt and pepper. Simmer on low about 10 minutes.

TREND & TRADITION

Vintage Glassware: Colorful Classics Making a Comeback in 2026

Peach State Depression Glass Club

Each month in “Trend & Tradition,” we explore the styles making a comeback—or sticking around for good—in the world of antique and vintage décor. Whether it’s a classic piece getting a modern twist or a fresh way to style a timeworn favorite, we’ll show you how old and new can live beautifully together.

Vintage glassware is one of the most joyful trends resurfacing in 2026. Collectors, decorators and shop owners alike are embracing the vibrant colors, sculptural shapes and nostalgic charm of glass produced from the 1930s through the 1970s. From soft pink and green pieces of the Depression era to mid-century ambers, olives and smoky tones, vintage glassware adds instant character to any home. Whether pressed, blown, etched or molded, these pieces tell a colorful story of changing tastes across the decades—and they’re finding their way into modern shelves, tables and displays with renewed enthusiasm.

So Why Is Vintage Glassware Trending Now?

This growing trend can be seen across antique shops, markets and online collectors’ groups. Several factors are fueling its revival:

- Color appeal: Vintage glass was produced in hues rarely seen in today’s mass-market pieces—cobalt, amber, ruby, avocado, even iridescent carnival finishes.
- Mix-and-match charm: Collectors enjoy combining different eras, shapes and colors for layered visual interest.
- Sustainability: Shoppers are embracing vintage over new for environmental reasons and to avoid disposable décor.
- Affordability: Many pieces remain budget-friendly, making it easy to start collecting without a large investment.

Whether your style leans nostalgic, modern or eclectic, vintage glassware fits beautifully into today’s decorating trends.

What to Look for While You Shop

When hunting for vintage glassware—from 1930s Depression glass to 1960s art glass—a few key details can help you find the most charming and enduring pieces:

- Condition: Minor scratches are expected; avoid major chips, cracks or clouding
- Color and era: Certain hues (like cobalt blue or ruby red) and mid-century smoky tones are especially popular
- Craftsmanship: Look for crisp patterns, clean mold lines or unique shapes in blown, pressed or cut glass
- Maker marks: Some pieces include etchings or labels that add collectible value
- Mixing and matching: Don’t be afraid to combine styles from different decades for an eclectic display

Even casual collectors can find pieces that bring color and personality to their home.

Easy Ways to Bring the Look Home

Incorporate these vibrant pieces into everyday life with simple strategies:

- Tabletop displays: Use dessert dishes, compotes, pitchers or juice tumblers
- Open shelving: Showcase a curated collection grouped by color, shape or era
- Everyday use: Incorporate glasses into daily routines—they’re durable, cheerful and conversation-worthy
- Mix with modern pieces: Pair colorful vintage glass with contemporary dishes for a fresh, eclectic look
- Small touches: Place a stem vase on a nightstand, stack bowls in the kitchen or brighten a windowsill with colorful tumblers

These small updates can bring vintage charm into your home without overwhelming your existing decor.

While many collectors enjoy using vintage glassware for occasional serving, it’s helpful to keep safety in mind. Most mid-century and Depression-era pieces contain little to no lead, but certain colors—especially vivid reds or uranium “Vaseline” glass—may include trace metals used in the manufacturing process. These levels are typically low, but if you prefer to be cautious, reserve those pieces for display rather than everyday food or drink. Always avoid using cracked or chipped glassware, as damage can trap bacteria or weaken the piece. With mindful use, vintage glass can be both a charming collectible and a functional part of your home.

Where to Hunt

One of the joys of collecting vintage glassware is the thrill of the search. Look for pieces at antique shops, vintage markets, estate sales and auctions throughout the Southeast. Winter is also an excellent season for exploring glass shows, where you’ll find everything from Depression-era treasures to mid-century art glass. Many Busy Bee advertisers carry colorful glassware year-round, making it easy to discover unique pieces that suit your style and budget. With a careful eye for color and craftsmanship, you can build a collection that feels timeless and personal.

Vintage glassware is a bright, versatile choice for collectors or anyone wanting to refresh their home décor. From joyful pops of 1930s color to stylish mid-century silhouettes, these pieces combine history, artistry and charm in ways that feel fresh and relevant today. Add a few favorites to your tabletop, display shelf or kitchen windowsill, and you’ll see how simple it is to bring a little sparkle from the past into your everyday life.

FOR THE LOVE OF ANTIQUE SEWING MACHINES

by Terry Lea, Murfreesboro, Tennessee

We are suckers for vintage Singers (and other sewing machines). Sewing machines have gone high tech now, but antique and vintage sewing machines hold a lot of repurposing potential. We've found five top-notch ways to repurpose and up-cycle your vintage sewing machine into a stylish and practical new piece for your home.

First, a brief history of the modern sewing machine. In the 1700s, several attempts in Europe were made to mechanize sewing. Many of these attempts were highly controversial and were feared to put an end to the fine art of hand sewing. (As it turns out, those fears were well founded.)

On September 10, 1846, Elias Howe was granted a patent for the first American sewing machine. In 1850, Isaac Singer began mass-producing a treadle-powered sewing machine, and that, too, stirred controversy, this one between Howe and Singer over the similarities of their designs. Singer lost the patent battle but won the ultimate war: his name was and is practically synonymous with sewing machines.

Fast forward through the foot-treadle years to electric sewing machines and to the last generation of homemakers who lovingly sewed clothing for themselves and their families. Many of us are left with machines and furniture cabinets once proudly owned and used by our mothers or grandmothers. If sewing isn't your jam, here are some ideas for using a piece with so much sentimental value attached.

1. Repurpose the cabinet into a drink cart.

A perennially popular Pinterest idea is to play to the clever strengths of these cabinets: they have a flip-top and cutout. Paint it, pop in a plastic or galvanized metal tub for ice, and voila — you've got an indoor/outdoor drink cart. Gussy it up with a towel holder and bottle opener and maybe some caster wheels on the bottom to help you roll it where it's needed. If this idea strikes your fancy, we recommend using a suitable paint and sealer that is UV and water resistant.

2. Recycle those drawers into organizers.

The drawers on older sewing machine cabinets were often beautifully carved with details on their face and sides. If you're lucky, the original hardware is still intact; if not, you can often find it in the wild. Painted and with some small bun feet to elevate it, it's perfect for your kitchen or bath countertop or perched on a desk as an organizer.

3. Use the ornate treadles as a table base.

The wrought iron treadle sides are gorgeous works of art. Showcase them by repurposing them into a lovely side table or console table. Cut good quality (preferably kiln dried) wood boards to the length you want, then stain and seal them before attaching the metal sides.

4. Create a dressing table.

If you can't bear to rip your antique sewing cabinet into bits and pieces, here's an idea for celebrating it nearly intact: remove the sewing machine and paint or stain the cabinet to transform it into a unique dressing table.

The drawers are the perfect size to hold cosmetics and jewelry, and with a mirror and hinge, the top will open and close easily. Paint a petite chair or bench to match and you're all set.

5. Turn the machine into a lamp.

Admittedly, this idea requires both artistry and mechanical skills to pull off, but these old machines are beautiful. Coming up with a way to reuse them is worth the effort. Find the perfect lampshade to coordinate with your particular machine, purchase a new lamp kit for safety, and create a truly one-of-a-kind statement piece for your home.

So there you have it: five ways to re-use that old sewing machine that's taking up space in your attic, basement or garage. (Of course, you can always turn it into a simple bedside table; they are the perfect height to tuck next to a bed.)

Cozy Corners:

January wants us to slow down a little. Not stop everything, just... move at a cozy pace. And what better excuse than creating a corner you never want to leave? Reading nook? Mini office? A spot where you occasionally pretend to "get work done" while actually sipping coffee and staring out the window? Yes, please.

This month we're inspired by tiny spaces packed with big charm, using vintage finds from our advertisers. A snug corner + old furniture + warm lighting = winter bliss. Let's build one.

Pick a Seat You'll Want to Sit in for Hours

Cozy corners start with a good perch. Think small settees, cushy chairs, wicker seats, old rockers with personality or even those velvety numbers that look like they've hosted a few dramatic diary entries. If you've got room, tuck in a secretary desk or mini writing table. They're the superheroes of small spaces—storage on top, workspace on bottom, charm everywhere.

Bonus: they make any corner feel important. Like, "Oh this? This is my work nook." (Even if you only use it for online shopping and calling the dentist.)

Pile On the Soft Stuff

Winter layering isn't just for sweaters. Blankets, quilts, wool throws, pillows—bring them on. Drape them, stack them, casually toss them like you live in a magazine. Patterns and textures help your corner feel warm even before you sit down.

Add a small basket or box nearby for books, chargers and the mail you're pretending not to see. You'll look stylish and organized without trying too hard. We love that for you.

Because Winter Needs Comfy Spots

Light It Up (Softly)

Bright overhead lights scream “doctor’s office.” Warm lamps whisper “stay a while.” Choose lamps with character: brass, pleated shades, ceramic bases, quirky shapes or something with old-fashioned charm. Or go big and add a hanging lamp if you really want to show off.

Candles in brass candlesticks or glass hurricanes turn your corner into instant ambiance. One flicker and suddenly your space feels like it’s telling you: “Sit. Stay. Don’t fold laundry.”

Add Personality: Tiny Objects, Big Charm

Decor is where cozy corners get fun. Add things that make the space feel like yours:

- old radios and record players
- bookends with serious style
- chess sets waiting for challengers

- artwork that calms you down
- clocks that happily don’t judge how long you sit there

Practical items count too. Pretty pen cups, vintage trays, old files, even quirky desk tools can make chores feel less like chores. Writing a check? Boring. Writing a check with an old fountain pen? Slightly dramatic and kind of fun.

Small Corner, Big Comfort

You don’t need a whole room to feel peaceful. Just a little spot where you can read, think, plan, sketch or daydream (we won’t tell). With antiques, your corner becomes more than furniture—it becomes a tiny retreat with stories layered into every piece.

So go ahead... build yourself a cozy escape. In January, we all deserve a corner that insists we take a break.

Celebrating Tradition

THE HOUSTON MUSEUM'S 52ND ANNUAL ANTIQUES SHOW & SALE

Chattanooga's antique lovers have a treasured February tradition, and this year promises to be one of the most memorable yet. The Houston Museum of Decorative Arts is hosting its 52nd Annual Antiques Show & Sale, an event that brings exceptional dealers, rich history and Southern craftsmanship together under one roof – all in support of the museum's enduring mission.

This year's show will be held at The Signal Ballroom in the Chattanooga Choo Choo complex, offering a spacious and lively setting for a weekend dedicated to antiques. Everything begins on Friday, February 20, with a festive Preview Party from 7-10 pm. Inspired by the theme Southern Charm, the evening gives guests early access to dealer booths before the main show opens. Attendees can enjoy live music by Lon Eldridge, sample Southern-inspired bites, sip wine and watch an exclusive candle-making demonstration using vintage and antique vessels – a nod to the beauty and creativity that define the museum's collection.

When the doors open the following morning, visitors will find an impressive lineup of more than 20 antiques dealers from across the country. From fine furniture and pottery to glass, art and curiosities, the selection reflects a wide range of styles and eras. Several well-known local dealers will also participate, making the show both a regional favorite and a draw for collectors traveling in from neighboring states.

New this year is a series of live artisan demonstrations that echo the show's Southern-Charm theme. Guests can see weaving, pottery, live painting and other traditional arts firsthand, highlighting the craftsmanship that lies at the heart of both antique collecting and the museum's own mission.

The Antiques Show is deeply rooted in Chattanooga's story. Its origins date back to 1950, when collector Anna Safley Houston organized the first version of the event to raise funds for her dream – a museum dedicated to her vast and extraordinary decorative arts collection. Though Anna passed away the following year, her vision lived on. With the help of 100 community members, the Houston Museum opened in 1961 inside its distinctive 1890s Victorian house. The Antiques Show was revived as a fundraiser in 1974 and has grown into a beloved annual tradition ever since.

This year's show carries particular significance as the museum continues its multi-year restoration project. The historic Victorian home is being carefully revitalized and updated with new amenities, including an elevator, a new gallery and the museum's first dedicated classroom. These additions will allow the museum to expand its educational programming, offer greater accessibility and honor Anna's dream in ways never before possible.

All proceeds from the Antiques Show directly support these restoration efforts, along with the preservation of Anna Safley Houston's world-class decorative arts collection. The funds also help sustain the museum's educational mission, ensuring that future generations can learn from and be inspired by the pieces Anna so passionately gathered.

For details, tickets and updates, visit thehoustonmuseum.org. Whether you're an avid collector or simply love a good dose of history and craftsmanship, the 52nd Annual Antiques Show & Sale is an event well worth marking on the calendar.

WHAT'S THE BUZZ ABOUT BEES?

by Shannon Ingram, Cleveland, Tennessee

What do we get from bees beyond their wonderful pollination and honey?

Did you know a beeswax candle is not only beautiful but burns cleaner, lasts longer and provides natural air purification through the release of negative ions? They are non-toxic, biodegradable, hypoallergenic and help neutralize odors!

Beeswax lip balm provides excellent hydration and a long-lasting natural barrier against wind and cold. Beeswax also provides your lips with natural vitamin A.

Beeswax lotion bars, blended with oils and butters, provide nourishing, long-lasting hydration for your entire body!

Beyond skincare, beeswax is used to condition wood, strengthen thread for quilters and so much more! One of our favorite uses is making our Lazy Elk brand Beeswax Wraps.

At The Lazy Elk, we use beeswax from our own hives and other reputable beekeepers. This is important because the benefits of beeswax help protect the longevity of your food. Storing food in beeswax wraps dates back to the early Egyptians using beeswax and cotton fabric to wrap and preserve food (though our patterns are much cuter!).

Beeswax Wraps are a great replacement for plastic wrap, aluminum foil and bowls without lids. They are a true zero-waste product! Our Beeswax Wraps will last over a year or so. Once they lose their stick, simply wad them up and use them as a firestarter—nothing goes in the landfill! You can always find our Beeswax Wraps from The Lazy Elk at Grit & Grace Market in Cleveland, TN.

Bees also gift us with propolis, the honeybee's natural antiseptic. Propolis tinctures have grown in popularity for skin irritations, sore throats and more. People are discovering its benefits and enjoying this natural remedy.

Beeswax is one of nature's most useful treasures!

BEESWAX LOTION BARS RECIPE

- 1 c beeswax
- 1 c mango, cocoa or shea butter
- ½ c olive oil
- 9 drops orange essential oil (optional)
- 9 drops lavender essential oil (optional)

Melt all ingredients except the essential oils in a double boiler on low heat. Remove from heat and add essential oils. Pour into silicone molds or gift tins. Let cool overnight. Enjoy!

PATRIOT RESALE

Patriot Resale and Collectibles is a great place to explore this winter! There's much to see: from antiques, furniture, jewelry, shoes to clothes, toys, glassware, vintage items and countless unique gift ideas. So, take your time, look around, and enjoy the variety of booths. They are located at 1015 E Hwy. 11E Jefferson City, Tenn. They are open Mon, Tues, Thurs, Fri 11-6, Sat 10-6 and Sun 12-5.

Estate Auctions

We conduct estate auctions that have antiques, cars, firearms, and real estate. We allow bidders to place bids online, and will for specified items, give an estimated shipping cost and arrange for delivery. You can visit our website and register to receive updates about our future auctions.

RHYNES WHOLESALE: FROM A CHICKEN HOUSE TO A DEALER FAVORITE

If you shop dealer markets or run a vintage booth in the Southeast, chances are someone has already told you, “You need to go to Rhynes.” The recommendation usually comes with a story — and that’s fitting, because Rhynes Wholesale began with one.

In the 1960s, Bill and Lou Rhyne started buying and selling antiques around Chattanooga and North Georgia. Their business grew fast, but their workshop didn’t. They set up shop inside an old red chicken house and began making reproductions — cast-iron bells, garden pieces, rustic décor — anything dealers needed but couldn’t easily find. Soon, that little “Big Red Chicken House” became a destination.

Today, Rhynes Wholesale is still a destination. The chicken house is long gone, replaced by buildings full of décor, furniture, glassware, metal goods, enamelware, seasonal pieces and more. The company is now led by the next generation — Jovanna and Bob Gurley, along with their family — who have continued the Rhyne tradition of keeping prices fair and service per-

Walk through their warehouse in Ringgold, Georgia, and you’ll find a staff that treats dealers like neighbors, not numbers. Many customers say that’s what keeps them coming back as much as the merchandise. The variety is huge, the buying experience is easy, and the prices are clearly built with resale in mind, especially for small shops and vendor booths.

And soon, loyal dealers will have even more reason to shop with Rhynes. In 2026, they’re launching Rhynes Rewards, a new program offering discounts, credits and exclusive perks for customers who purchase regularly. It’s designed to thank the dealers who have helped build the business, just like those early antique buyers who drove out to the red chicken house decades ago.

Family-owned. Dealer-focused. Still built on the idea that a business thrives when relationships do. Explore more at rhynes.com and keep an eye out for Rhynes Rewards in 2026.
